

The system creates shielding from incoming RPG missiles

Description:

- The system consists of a set of equipment designed to create shielding from incoming RPG missiles
- System provides information on direction, speed and time remaining for the rocket missile hit
- The shield encompasses the whole moving vehicle and causes the tearing of the incoming missilehead

Characteristics:

- The system is highly portable and can be installed on every military vehicle
- The system can be used no matter what the installed passive protection, f. in. in a form of protective net
- In critical situations, firing the shield may prevent from boarding or close-distance attacks

Competitive advantages:

- Wireless data transmission
- Remote configuration of measurement modules
- Remote server configuration
- Extensive system of alerts of events notifications
- Freely configurable alarm modes

Application:

- The Army

